MISSISSIPPI FLOOD DAMAGE IS A HEAVY ONE

55 COUNTIES NOW TOTAL $197,000,000

DAMAGE IN 58 OTHER COUNTIES NOT YET COMPILED

TOTAL ESTIMATE OF FLOOD DAMAGE MAY BE OVER $400,000,000

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 29.—(UP)—Flood damage in 55 Illinois, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas and Mississippi counties amounts to $197,000,000, according to an estimate submitted to the Mississippi river commission by Fred Beneke, secretary of the Mississippi river flood association.

The damage in 58 other affected counties is yet to be compiled. Beneke said work of completing the survey was going forward as rapidly as possible. He expects the total estimate of damage to be approximately $400,000,000. Complete statistics will be printed in book form and distributed to every member of congress.

The detailed information sent to the Mississippi river commission will be incorporated in its report to army engineers about October 1, according to Beneke.

"The estimate of $197,000,000 was arrived at after a thorough investigation," Beneke said. "We got it from sources we know are reliable and it is conservative. For instance, we valued chickens at 25 cents each, mules at $100, hogs at $10 and sheep at $4.

The flight Friday will be to Detroit, Mich., their starting point.

The radiogram follows:

The aviators were induced to abandon plans for a trans-Pacific flight and took a steamer from Japan.

TOUCH NATIVE SOIL AFTER WORLD TOUR

BROCK AND SCHLEE, DETROIT AVIATORS, REACH SAN FRANCISCO

GREETED BY TWO OFFICIAL TUGS AS LINER SWINGS INTO BAY

By RICHARD BALDWIN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 29. — Touching native soil again after a month's absence in their spectacular attempt to break the world's record for circling the globe, William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee, Detroit aviators, reached San Francisco today.

The liner Korea Maru on which they crossed the Pacific from Japan after abandoning plans to fly across the vast stretch of water, reached quarantine here at 7 A. M.

Brock and Schlee were greeted by two official tugs that went down to quarantine to meet them. They were taken aboard one of the tugs and landed at Crissy Field shortly before 9 A. M.

Their plane, the Pride of Detroit, was unloaded onto a barge from the Korea Maru and taken direct to the field, from where they will fly this afternoon to Oakland Airport.

Brock and Schlee announced they planned to hop off from Oakland Airport tomorrow morning for Detroit.

Both fliers looked tired and their faces were lined, although they had had 15 days on board ship in which to rest from the strain of their air race across the Atlantic ocean and two continents.

G. A. Burns and Marion Sterling, two Detroit aviators who reached San Francisco yesterday, boarded the Korea Maru as soon as the quarantine flag was lowered and welcomed their fellow aviators.

Burns and Sterling will escort Brock and Schlee back to Detroit. Burns announced a monster reception is being planned in Detroit for Brock and Schlee next Tuesday.

"We were anxious to attempt the hop from Japan to Midway Islands," Brock said. "The reason we gave up the attempt was because our relatives so bitterly opposed it.

"We received more than 800 cablegrams from relatives and friends and those intersted in the flight while we were in Tokio asking us not to try to fly across the Pacific.

"We do not think the hop from Tokio to Honolulu by way of the Midway Islands is impossible. It is quite feasible.

"Had we left Tokio on the Pacific flight I do not believe we would have stopped at Midway Islands, but would have continued to Honolulu.

"After stopping at Honolulu to refuel our plane we would have then made the jump from Hawaii to San Francisco.

"I believe we would have had enough gas to make it from Tokio to Honolulu in one hop and we had unlimited confidence in the ability of our plane to make the distance."

Schlee was asked about the narrowest escape they had on the trip. "Our narrowest escape," he said. "Huh! We had too many to remember any particular one as the most dangerous."

Hatless and coatless, the two fliers superintended the unloading of their plane from the barge at Crissy field.

Brock and Schlee were undecided shortly before noon whether they would take off from the Oakland Airport as previously announced or from the Mills Field Airport in San Francisco.

They conferred with Frank Flynn, superintendent of the Mills Field Airport and it was pointed out that the runway there was of sufficient length for them to take off with their heavily loaded plane.

After talking with Flynn, they said decision would be made later as to which airport would be used for the take-off for Detroit.

Brock and Schlee left Crissy field a short time later for a hotel where they planned to rest a short time and call relatives in Detroit by long distance telephone.

They will return to Crissy field this afternoon to give their plane a final inspection and make ready for the flight to Detroit.

MAGRUDER-NAVY CONTROVERSY IS NOW ENDED

BOTH SIDES SURVEY RESULTS WITH SOME SATISFACTION

REAR ADMIRAL MAGRUDER HAS APOLOGIZED TO SECRETARY OF NAVY WILBUR

By HERBERT LITTLE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Sept. 29.—The Magruder-navy controversy is ended for the present, with satisfactory results on both sides. Congress inevitably will reopen it.

Rear Admiral T. P. Magruder has apologized to Secretary Wilbur for any embarrassment caused the navy by his caustic magazine article charging that 55 admirals were too many and that shore establishments were far too extensive.

Magruder also gave Wilbur a statement that he had been misrepresented in an interview printed by the New York Times last Saturday on the subject of his article and the navy in general. Wilbur has abandoned any idea of punitive action against Magruder, and the admiral has promised aid in additional steps to eliminate navy red tape.

Congressional leaders meantime made plans to seek naval economy along the lines suggested by Magruder, and Secretary Wilbur indicated he might anticipate their investigations by having the admiral draft a series of legislative recommendations.

The secretary pointed out that in 1926 he sent a letter to all bureau chiefs suggesting plans for elimination of red tape, and two months ago these efforts were renewed as a result of suggestions made through regular channels by Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett. Wilbur recognizes also, however, that Magruder's criticism made outside regular channels has centered congressional attention on the navy, and he expects to take advantage of Magruder's promise to co-operate with the navy and its policies.

Magruder and Wilbur also discussed plans for meeting the situation created by failure of the second deficiency bill, under which 1,000 men must be laid off for the next three months and possibly for a half year at the Philadelphia navy yard, and smaller numbers at Norfolk, Boston and Bremerton.

Wilbur announced an effort was being made to furlough the laid-off workers, so they would not lose their retirement and promotion rights under the law. At present furloughs can be granted for 30 days only, but the term will be extended to cover the layoff if it is legally possible, he said.

Without funds, the navy is unable to avert the layoffs, Wilbur said.

Bagdad, Sept. 29.—(UP)—Otto Koennecke, German war ace, whose Caspar monoplane Germania burst a tire on landing here, told the United Press today he had found a spare wheel for his plane and would take off at 5 p. m. for Bunder Abbas, Persia.

"My route after that," he said, "will be to Bombay, Calcutta, Singapore, Hongkong, Japan, San Francisco."

Koennecke left Cologne last week on the eastward flight after waiting in vain for weeks for weather conditions to make possible a flight across the Atlantic to New York.

POLICE GUARD AT BEDSIDE OF HOWARD GUILFORD

IS RECOVERING FROM BULLET WOUNDS INFLICTED BY GUNMEN

MYSTERIOUS PROWLER IN HOSPITAL HALL FLED AS NURSE CAME

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 29. — (UP)—Police today guarded Howard Guilford, editor of an expose weekly newspaper, as he lay in his bed at a hospital here, recovering from a bullet wound inflicted by gunmen Monday.

Guards were rushed to St. Barnabas hospital early today when a nurse, passing through a hall, found a man quietly approaching Guilford's room. He fled when the nurse sought to question him.

From descriptions furnished police, the mysterious prowler was recognized as a notorious police character. A search of the building and grounds failed to reveal the man.

Guilford's condition today was reported as somewhat improved. Late yesterday it was believed he was worse, but he rallied toward morning.

Guilford was struck by one of four bullets fired into his automobile from a second machine as he drove from his home in Robbinsdale, to his office.

Two of five suspects arrested by police have been identified by Guilford as his assailants.

GRIEVED OVER CIVIL MARRIAGE

BRIDE OF 5 DAYS SLASHES HER HUSBAND'S AND HER OWN THROAT

Cleveland, O., Sept. 29.—(UP)—Believing that she had sinned when she was married by a justice of the peace and not by a minister, Mrs. Pauline Vrankovich, a bride of five days, slashed her husband's throat with a razor early today and then attempted to take her own life.

Vrankovich, whose condition was pronounced serious, told police his wife had been worrying over the civil marriage for two days. He said she threatened to take his life and those of his four children.

Fearful that she would carry out her threat, Vrankovich said he sat up Wednesday night. As he nodded in a chair in the kitchen, he said, his wife slipped into the bathroom, procured a razor and slashed his throat.

Vrankovich went to a nearby garage and called police. When they arrived at the Vrankovich home they found the woman pacing the floor. There was a cut on her neck where apparently she had tried to kill herself.

2 DEAD, ROLL OF INJURED 200, HOSPITALS FILLED

ROOF BLOWN OFF THE CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL, 15 PUPILS WERE HURT

SCHOOL JUST STARTED, SOME SCHOLARS MAY HAVE BEEN TRAPPED IN WRECKAGE

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 29.—(UP)—A tornado swept over St. Louis this afternoon, beginning at 1 P. M. and reaching a maximum velocity at 1:03 of 80 miles an hour.

Two and a half hours later the city was still suffering from demoralized communications. Telephones were out; many buildings were damaged, and the casualty list showed two known dead and the injured estimated at between 200 and 300.

The known dead were both policemen, who were trapped in the same building.

Hospitals were swamped with emergency calls. Every hospital in the city had many calls.

At city hospital, in the heart of the storm area, 65 patients were received in the first hour and a half after the storm broke.

The roof was blown in at the Central high school. At least 15 pupils were injured. School had just started the afternoon session. Others may have been trapped in the wreckage.

The tornado struck the city at 1 P. M. and roared at maximum intensity for about five minutes, reaching its peak at 1:05 P. M. During those five minutes trees toppled over and buildings were damaged to the extent of many thousands of dollars.

So violent was the wind that automobiles were blown from the road and pedestrians could not stand against its fury.

Heavy rain accompanied the wind two-tenths of an inch falling in five minutes.

Ten houses on one street were torn by the wind.

Three passengers on a street car were cut by broken glass from the windows.

Windows were shattered through the business and residential districts.

All police reserves were called out. All ambulances were hurried from one part of the city to another as telephone communication was restored and reports came in from the sections most damaged.

Earlier in the day a tornado had levelled the town of Rudy, Ark., destroying 12 residences, four garages and a school. No casualties were reported.

Farm houses were reported levelled and at least one person was injured by a high wind near Checotah, Okla.

3 FLIERS LOCATED; AWAIT FAVORABLE WEATHER FOR FLIGHT

Eau Claire, Wis., Sept. 29—(UP)—Three fliers, objects of a search when they disappeared between Cannon Falls, Minn., and Oshkosh, Wis., today awaited favorable weather here for a return journey.

Robert Mensing, pilot, changed plans enroute and landed here instead of at Oshkosh. Upon learning that his failure to arrive there on schedule had caused anxiety and search, he notified relatives of the party's safety here.

Mensing, accompanied by Harvey Marht, Randolph, Neb., and Elmer McKay, Chicago, left Cannon Falls Thursday.

SAUERKRAUT EATING CHAMP OF THE WORLD

7 PERSONS WERE IN A CRANBERRY BOG NEAR MURDER

SUMMONED TODAY FOR QUESTIONING AT HAMMONTON, N. J.

WORKERS UNDERSTOOD TO HAVE HEARD SOME ONE CALL WHEN LILLIENDAHL WAS SLAIN

Hammonton, N. J., Sept. 29. — (UP) — Seven persons who were working in a cranberry bog near the scene of the murder of Dr. William Lilliendahl, aged physician, were summoned for questioning today by Frank J. Harrold, chief of county detectives.

The workers were understood to have heard two persons apparently some distance apart, calling to each other about the time Dr. Lilliendahl was shot to death.

Mrs. Anna Cacileer, one of the seven, said she heard the calls three or four times but was not certain whether the voices were masculine or feminine. She learned subsequently that she was about half a mile from the scene of the murder.

The search for the missing Willis Beach, wanted for "aiding and abetting" in Dr. Lilliendahl's death, continued without results. Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, the widow, who is under $25,000 bond as a material witness, was still under guard at her home.

State prosecutors still were undecided whether they would swear out a murder warrant against Beach or what action if any they would take against Beach's attorney, Edson Hedges. Hedges took full responsibility for the disappearance of Beach.

Prosecutor Louis Repetto and Assistant Prosecutor S. Cameron Hinkle conferred for three hours last night over the case.

The gand jury meets today but the case will not be presented to it, Repetto said. "There is still one small factor missing," he explained.

Repetto said the facts of Hedges' conduct in the case would be laid before the grievance committee of the Atlantic County Bar Association.

There was excitement at state police headquarters last night when a motorist reported seeing a suspicious looking man along the road between Hammonton and Vineland.

A dozen cars of troopers, reporters, photographers and policemen sought the man and found him. He proved to be a youth by the name of George Blair, who had escaped from the state reformatory. He was arrested.

SURVEY MADE, ROCKY MOUNTAIN, PACIFIC COAST

CONSIDERED A FAVORITE SON BY AT LEAST 2 COAST STATES

WON FAVOR BY ADVOCACY OF POWER AND WATERWAYS DEVELOPMENT

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Sept. 29.—Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover has an edge at this time on his competitors for the 1928 republican presidential delegates from the Rocky Mountain and Pacific coast regions, according to a survey conducted by United Press bureaus.

Hoover is considered a favorite son by at least two coast states and has won much favor among citizenry and newspapers because of his advocacy of power and waterways development.

Democrats of the area are split into camps either for or against Gov. Al Smith of New York. In 1924 democrats of the west were almost unanimous for Smith's opponent William G. McAdoo, and there is still widespread dry sentiment against Smith. The New York governor, however has made inroads in Wyoming, Montana, Utah and Washington, and has a chance in Colorado and California.

The other democratic candidates thus far have received scant mention and the situation in the party is described by many western leaders as "apathetic."

Republican discussion centers chiefly around Hoover and former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois. Hoover was raised in Salem and Newberg, Ore., and was graduated from Sanford University, California. He has a strong following in both those states. In Oregon, however, considerable sentiment is reported for the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill which does not coincide with Hoover's farm relief idea. Lowden favored the McNary-Haugen bill and therefore has been much discussed as a prospect.

Senator Jones, republican, Washington, says he has heard no one but Hoover mentioned seriously in his state.

In Wyoming, republican editors went on record recently 33 to 2 in favor of Hoover against Lowden, and leaders in Montana, Nevada and Utah have commented favorably upon the secretary's candidacy. In Arizona his popularity is not high because of his stand on the Boulder Canyon dam project, but in Nevada, former Governor J. G. Scrugham has published several editorials in his democratic newspaper favoring Herbert Hoover. Scrugham is a strong personal friend of the commerce chief and is a power in Nevada politics.

In Colorado, Senator Phipps believes President Coolidge will be drafted but John R. Coen, state chairman and leader of the anti-Phipps faction, and Clarence C. Hamlin, national committeeman, have leaned toward Hoover.

Idaho is expected to pledge to Senator Borah as a favorite son.

The democratic problem is similar. Smith may get half of Colorado's 12 convention votes. John T. Barnett, national committeeman, favors the New York governor while Tom Annear, state chairman, is understood to be against him. Gov. William Adams is considered favorable to Smith and Adams may possibly get the delegation as a favorite son.

There is some wet sentiment in Washington, where Smith is conceded a chance, although he probably will be opposed by Senator Dill. Oregon is ardently dry and the anti-Smith forces are in the party saddle there. In Montana, Nevada and Wyoming, democrats are split over Smith but he appears to have the edge in Utah. In Arizona he is conceded a good chance. Montana may pledge for Senator Thomas J. Walsh as a favorite son.

Unless some leading dry candidate appears, it seems that the majority of states in this territory may send uninstructed delegates to the convention to oppose Smith and vote for his best opponent.

The situation, however, has plenty of time to change before the spring primaries, and most of the leaders are lying low to see what will happen.

GRIEVED OVER CIVIL MARRIAGE

BRIDE OF 5 DAYS SLASHES HER HUSBAND'S AND HER OWN THROAT

Cleveland, O., Sept. 29.—(UP)—Believing that she had sinned when she was married by a justice of the peace and not by a minister, Mrs. Pauline Vrankovich, a bride of five days, slashed her husband's throat with a razor early today and then attempted to take her own life.

Vrankovich, whose condition was pronounced serious, told police his wife had been worrying over the civil marriage for two days. He said she threatened to take his life and those of his four children.

Fearful that she would carry out her threat, Vrankovich said he sat up Wednesday night. As he nodded in a chair in the kitchen, he said, his wife slipped into the bathroom, procured a razor and slashed his throat.

Vrankovich went to a nearby garage and called police. When they arrived at the Vrankovich home they found the woman pacing the floor. There was a cut on her neck where apparently she had tried to kill herself.

2 DEAD, ROLL OF INJURED 200, HOSPITALS FILLED

ROOF BLOWN OFF THE CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL, 15 PUPILS WERE HURT

SCHOOL JUST STARTED, SOME SCHOLARS MAY HAVE BEEN TRAPPED IN WRECKAGE

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 29.—(UP)—A tornado swept over St. Louis this afternoon, beginning at 1 P. M. and reaching a maximum velocity at 1:03 of 80 miles an hour.

Two and a half hours later the city was still suffering from demoralized communications. Telephones were out; many buildings were damaged, and the casualty list showed two known dead and the injured estimated at between 200 and 300.

The known dead were both policemen, who were trapped in the same building.

Hospitals were swamped with emergency calls. Every hospital in the city had many calls.

At city hospital, in the heart of the storm area, 65 patients were received in the first hour and a half after the storm broke.

The roof was blown in at the Central high school. At least 15 pupils were injured. School had just started the afternoon session. Others may have been trapped in the wreckage.

The tornado struck the city at 1 P. M. and roared at maximum intensity for about five minutes, reaching its peak at 1:05 P. M. During those five minutes trees toppled over and buildings were damaged to the extent of many thousands of dollars.

So violent was the wind that automobiles were blown from the road and pedestrians could not stand against its fury.

Heavy rain accompanied the wind two-tenths of an inch falling in five minutes.

Ten houses on one street were torn by the wind.

Three passengers on a street car were cut by broken glass from the windows.

Windows were shattered through the business and residential districts.

All police reserves were called out. All ambulances were hurried from one part of the city to another as telephone communication was restored and reports came in from the sections most damaged.

Earlier in the day a tornado had levelled the town of Rudy, Ark., destroying 12 residences, four garages and a school. No casualties were reported.

Farm houses were reported levelled and at least one person was injured by a high wind near Checotah, Okla.

3 FLIERS LOCATED; AWAIT FAVORABLE WEATHER FOR FLIGHT

Eau Claire, Wis., Sept. 29—(UP)—Three fliers, objects of a search when they disappeared between Cannon Falls, Minn., and Oshkosh, Wis., today awaited favorable weather here for a return journey.

Robert Mensing, pilot, changed plans enroute and landed here instead of at Oshkosh. Upon learning that his failure to arrive there on schedule had caused anxiety and search, he notified relatives of the party's safety here.

Mensing, accompanied by Harvey Marht, Randolph, Neb., and Elmer McKay, Chicago, left Cannon Falls Thursday.

COUPLE MARRY, THEN AIM TO START REVOLUTION

London, Sept. 29. — (UP) — A Daily Mail dispatch today from Riga quoted an official Soviet announcement of the marriage in Moscow of Eugene Chen, recent foreign minister of the Chinese nationalists, and Madame Su Yat-Sen, widow of the founder of the nationalist movement.

It was reported the couple was en route to China to start a new revolution. The Daily Mail dispatch said the Third Internationale had given them a substantial check to finance their activities.

7 PERSONS WERE IN A CRANBERRY BOG NEAR MURDER

SUMMONED TODAY FOR QUESTIONING AT HAMMONTON, N. J.

WORKERS UNDERSTOOD TO HAVE HEARD SOME ONE CALL WHEN LILLIENDAHL WAS SLAIN

Hammonton, N. J., Sept. 29. — (UP) — Seven persons who were working in a cranberry bog near the scene of the murder of Dr. William Lilliendahl, aged physician, were summoned for questioning today by Frank J. Harrold, chief of county detectives.

The workers were understood to have heard two persons apparently some distance apart, calling to each other about the time Dr. Lilliendahl was shot to death.

Mrs. Anna Cacileer, one of the seven, said she heard the calls three or four times but was not certain whether the voices were masculine or feminine. She learned subsequently that she was about half a mile from the scene of the murder.

The search for the missing Willis Beach, wanted for "aiding and abetting" in Dr. Lilliendahl's death, continued without results. Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, the widow, who is under $25,000 bond as a material witness, was still under guard at her home.

State prosecutors still were undecided whether they would swear out a murder warrant against Beach or what action if any they would take against Beach's attorney, Edson Hedges. Hedges took full responsibility for the disappearance of Beach.

Prosecutor Louis Repetto and Assistant Prosecutor S. Cameron Hinkle conferred for three hours last night over the case.

The gand jury meets today but the case will not be presented to it, Repetto said. "There is still one small factor missing," he explanied.

Repetto said the facts of Hedges' conduct in the case would be laid before the grievance committee of the Atlantic County Bar Association.

There was excitement at state police headquarters last night when a motorist reported seeing a suspicious looking man along the road between Hammonton and Vineland.

A dozen cars of troopers, reporters, photographers and policemen sought the man and found him. He proved to be a youth by the name of George Blair, who had escaped from the state reformatory. He was arrested.

SURVEY MADE, ROCKY MOUNTAIN, PACIFIC COAST

CONSIDERED A FAVORITE SON BY AT LEAST 2 COAST STATES

WON FAVOR BY ADVOCACY OF POWER AND WATERWAYS DEVELOPMENT

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Sept. 29.—Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover has an edge at this time on his competitors for the 1928 republican presidential delegates from the Rocky Mountain and Pacific coast regions, according to a survey conducted by United Press bureaus.

Hoover is considered a favorite son by at least two coast states and has won much favor among citizenry and newspapers because of his advocacy of power and waterways development.

Democrats of the area are split into camps either for or against Gov. Al Smith of New York. In 1924 democrats of the west were almost unanimous for Smith's opponent William G. McAdoo, and there is still widespread dry sentiment against Smith. The New York governor, however has made inroads in Wyoming, Montana, Utah and Washington, and has a chance in Colorado and California.

The other democratic candidates thus far have received scant mention and the situation in the party is described by many western leaders as "apathetic."

Republican discussion centers chiefly around Hoover and former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois. Hoover was raised in Salem and Newberg, Ore., and was graduated from Sanford University, California. He has a strong following in both those states. In Oregon, however, considerable sentiment is reported for the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill which does not coincide with Hoover's farm relief idea. Lowden favored the McNary-Haugen bill and therefore has been much discussed as a prospect.

Senator Jones, republican, Washington, says he has heard no one but Hoover mentioned seriously in his state.

In Wyoming, republican editors went on record recently 33 to 2 in favor of Hoover against Lowden, and leaders in Montana, Nevada and Utah have commented favorably upon the secretary's candidacy. In Arizona his popularity is not high because of his stand on the Boulder Canyon dam project, but in Nevada, former Governor J. G. Scrugham has published several editorials in his democratic newspaper favoring Herbert Hoover. Scrugham is a strong personal friend of the commerce chief and is a power in Nevada politics.

In Colorado, Senator Phipps believes President Coolidge will be drafted but John R. Coen, state chairman and leader of the anti-Phipps faction, and Clarence C. Hamlin, national committeeman, have leaned toward Hoover.

Idaho is expected to pledge to Senator Borah as a favorite son.

The democratic problem is similar. Smith may get half of Colorado's 12 convention votes. John T. Barnett, national committeeman, favors the New York governor while Tom Annear, state chairman, is understood to be against him. Gov. William Adams is considered favorable to Smith and Adams may possibly get the delegation as a favorite son.

There is some wet sentiment in Washington, where Smith is conceded a chance, although he probably will be opposed by Senator Dill. Oregon is ardently dry and the anti-Smith forces are in the party saddle there. In Montana, Nevada and Wyoming, democrats are split over Smith but he appears to have the edge in Utah. In Arizona he is conceded a good chance. Montana may pledge for Senator Thomas J. Walsh as a favorite son.

Unless some leading dry candidate appears, it seems that the majority of states in this territory may send uninstructed delegates to the convention to oppose Smith and vote for his best opponent.

The situation, however, has plenty of time to change before the spring primaries, and most of the leaders are lying low to see what will happen.

Men can conquer everything except a sense of loneliness.

Judging by appearances shop girls don't need a minimum wage law to protect their standard of dressing.

Our idea of helpfulness is to bring a basket of fruit to the sick man and then sit on the bed and eat it.

We've always noticed that when you start out at 5 o'clock in the morning, you escape the dust of everybody except those who started out at 5 o'clock to escape dust.

Our sales on STANDARD COAL are increasing steadily. There's a reason. Try it and be convinced.

If all of you knew everything about the rest of us, none of us would associate with any of us.

Culture doesn't really mean so very much more than the ability to be bored without nodding your head, and to yawn without opening your mouth.

Are men easier to sell to than women, or vice versa? The grocer will tell you that men are easier, but not for the reason you suppose.

Yesterday a man asked us if STANDARD is the only coal we sell. Guess we don't talk any other kind but that's because we know STANDARD is the most economical fuel to use. However, we have several different kinds as well as Briquets and if you insist on some other coal we can deliver.

Men can conquer everything except a sense of loneliness.

Judging by appearances shop girls don't need a minimum wage law to protect their standard of dressing.

Our idea of helpfulness is to bring a basket of fruit to the sick man and then sit on the bed and eat it.

We've always noticed that when you start out at 5 o'clock in the morning, you escape the dust of everybody except those who started out at 5 o'clock to escape dust.

Our sales on STANDARD COAL are increasing steadily. There's a reason. Try it and be convinced.

If all of you knew everything about the rest of us, none of us would associate with any of us.

Oh my darling Nellie Gray,
They have taken you away.

Culture doesn't really mean so very much more than the ability to be bored without nodding your head, and to yawn without opening your mouth.

Are men easier to sell to than women, or vice versa? The grocer will tell you that men are easier, but not for the reason you suppose.

Yesterday a man asked us if STANDARD is the only coal we sell. Guess we don't talk any other kind but that's because we know STANDARD is the most economical fuel to use. However, we have several different kinds as well as Briquets and if you insist on some other coal we can deliver.

ENJOY BEAN SUPPER

Harold Gridley is Leader; Alex Nelson Heads Club for Season; 25 Members

The Hi-Y, which is the Y. M. C. A. high school boys club, met at the "Y." last evening and displayed a great amount of pep which insures a year of success for the club. Regular weekly meetings will be held on Wednesdays throughout the school year.

The meeting started with the traditional fifteen cent bean supper in the library of the "Y." It being the first meeting, Alex Nelson's mother surprised the boys with home made buns and fruit salad. This was a pleasant surprise, however the boys claim they are going to hold to the regular menu during the year.

Harold Gridley of the high school faculty, who is leader of the Hi-Y, took the old club members to the upper club rooms after supper and made preparation to initiate the sixteen new members. Meantime Mr. Peterson of the "Y." lead the rest with community singing, while Gerald Schrader played the piano. Then the new members became acquainted with the inner workings of the club while going through the ritual.

Mr. Gridley dismissed the club, admonishing them that the members should each do their share and that the club having such and excellent start with twenty five members, there was the opportunity to enjoy many benefits and pleasures with the right cooperation. Alex Nelson is president of the club this year.

MORE THAN TWO MILLION HOUSEWIVES HAVE PROVED THIS SUGAR IN JELLY MAKING AND PRESERVING . . . . IT IS GUARANTEED!

Oklahoma's Champion Jelly Maker proved this sugar

MRS. R. W. McNALLY
Waynoka, Oklahoma

State champion jelly makers and preservers were chosen for eight states in the contest recently conducted by The Great Western Sugar Company. The Oklahoma champion is Mrs. R. W. McNally of Waynoka, representing the Willing Workers Home Demonstration Farm Women's Club. Although not a contest requirement, Mrs. McNally used Great Western Sugar in making her jellies and preserves. Her statement follows

I have done a great deal of preserving and jelly making, not only for home use, but for county fair exhibits and other such purposes.

For several years we have used Great Western Sugar in most of our canning season work, and it has proved very satisfactory. Many a glass of jelly and preserves that I have made with it has taken the blue ribbon.

I put up something like twelve hundred quarts of fruits and berries every year, do a great deal of cooking and baking for a family of eight people, and for all purposes I use Great Western Sugar by choice.

Just before I entered the contest I bought a bag of this sugar— as fine-grained and pretty a sugar as I have ever seen.

Most jelly-making failures in my experiences have been due to failure to test for pectin, and lack of thorough filtering. The pectin test should always be used, and either home-made or commercial pectin added if this very important ingredient is not present in proper quantity. The juice should be strained first through a cotton bag and then through a cotton flannel bag.

An Open Letter to the Editor
From the President of General Motors

LAST SPRING I wrote you that my belief in the country newspaper had led us in General Motors to decide to advertise our products together in the small-city press of the country.

The returns from the series of the messages recently published have justified that faith; and we shall continue to advertise in your community through your newspaper this fall.

It occurs to me, however, that some of your readers may be asking: "What is General Motors?" and "Why is General Motors?" These are fair questions and I should like to answer them as frankly as I can.

General Motors was organized some years ago on the theory that a group of large companies, working together, could render a better service than they could separately. In this we simply applied to industry a principle that is as old as civilization as regards the human family and human progress.

Original members of the General Motors family were Buick, Cadillac, Chevrolet, Oakland and Oldsmobile, together with the Delco-Light Company and other well-known companies manufacturing automotive equipment. By joining together their resources, we were able to establish great Research Laboratories, a 1245-acre Proving Ground and the GMAC Plan of credit purchase; to effect vast economies in purchase and manufacture and distribution; to assure and maintain the quality of every product in the General Motors family.

Has the General Motors family principle proved itself in practice?

The best answer, I think, is to compare the Chevrolet, Buick, Cadillac, Oldsmobile and Oakland of today with the models of five or ten years ago.

Then add Pontiac, a General Motors creation. Add LaSalle, another General Motors creation. And then consider how General Motors has developed these cars into a complete line, within which any family may find a suitable quality car at the price it plans to pay: "A Car for Every Purse and Purpose."

Another example is Frigidaire, the electric refrigerator. General Motors had the resources to spend millions to develop a satisfactory refrigerator, and then to apply to its manufacture the same processes which have increased the utility and lowered the cost of the automobile.

We believe that this record justifies General Motors as an economic institution. Its products are quality products, first of all. Their prices represent the economies of united effort passed on to the purchaser. In the last year one in each three automobiles chosen by the public has been a General Motors car. The service of Delco-Light electric plants has extended to more than a quarter million homes, while Frigidaire has become the world's largest selling convenience of its kind.

We believe also that the values now offered in the current General Motors products (which are listed below) prove anew that "many minds are better than one" and that a family of companies, working together, can produce results which are decidedly in the public interest and of increasing benefit to the individual family.

Very truly yours,
Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., President

TIME TO DROP PESSIMISTIC WAIL

THE DISPATCH has been given this editorial from the Minneapolis Tribune to publish because, as a banker stated, it is about time to stop the pessimistic wail emanating from certain sections of the midwest and to give room to more jubilant notes of achievement. In spite of all the wails lifted from the state of Iowa where the tall corn grows and where unwise bankers in some cases loaned too heavily on inflated boom time farm land prices, Iowa shows a remarkable increase in per capita wealth. The editorial reads:

The current number of Omaha's Own Magazine carries a discussion of the American farmer and his troubles by James P. Goodrich, formerly governor of Indiana, who denies that the agricultural situation is as bad as it is painted and cites in proof some interesting data about some of the states in which the chorus of complaint has been loudest, notably Iowa.

Mr. Goodrich thinks it is time to talk about rural banks that adhered to prudence and didn't fail instead of about banks that failed—and failed mainly because of unsound banking practices. He would like to hear more for a while about successful farmers and less about the unsuccessful ones; more about the profits that have been made on farms and less about losses. In sum, he is for having the anvil chorus withdraw from the spotlight into the wings, and give place to another large chorus that is disposed to keep off the minor chords and sound some jubilant notes.

There is no doubt that the jeremiads—the lamentations—that have made a large part of our farm areas vocal since 1920 have interfered with the stability of agriculture and betterment of farm conditions. Mr. Goodrich has good reason to say that "no other business would have survived the storm of pessimism that has swept over American agriculture."

Why not a better hearkening to stories of farm solvencies and profits that refer back to rational diversification and all the logical things that go with it? Almost innumerable such stories have been recited in detail in the columns of The Tribune in the last five or six years. Why not some timely concentration of attention on such facts as Mr. Goordich cites about Iowa as follows:

> Isn't it time that some loyal son of Iowa was calling attention to the fact that the per capita wealth of Iowa in 1926 was $3,539, nearly double the average of the United States?
> That the farm cash income last year was $718,000,000, an average of $2,821 for each family. That only 8½ per cent of this was from corn. That her poultry products amounted to double and her dairy products to nearly four times the value of her corn sold. That her farmers marketed in 1926, 10,702,000 hogs, 1,899,000 cattle, 862,000 sheep, 289,000 calves and 32,000,000 poultry, to produce which she fed 400,000,000 bushels of corn, at a net return of much over $1 a bushel. That the value of the poultry and dairy products alone for last year was $204,477,000. That her loans from federal banks have decreased from $98,636,000 on December 11, 1920, to $6,794,000 on February 17, 1927. That her loans from War Finance corporation had decreased from $24,000,000 on May 1, 1922, to only $22,000 on January 1, 1927. That the deposit in her 1,427 banks and trust companies on December 31 last was $881,065,915.76, as against $442,110,916.96 on December 31, 1914.

Disseminating this information is, we should say, a good turn by a citizen of Indiana to the sovereign state of Iowa—where the tall corn grows. It is like administering a poultice to the "black eye" which some of the Jeremiahs of Iowa have given their own robust state.

FOOD GROWS HAIR ON BALD HEADS

Chicago — Scientists have found that Baldness is brought on by the lack of necessary food elements that the human hair requires. "Foods found in Mother Earth grow, nourish and retain our hair," says P. A. Thomas, Ph. D., well known hair specialist, 294 America-Fore Bldg., Chicago. He further states that the hair roots always stay alive and that in 85 out of 100 cases where hair is falling out or baldness has set in, a growth of new hair can be had in a short time by following his simple directions. He will gladly explain his method without cost to those interested in restoring or saving their hair. Write him today. —Adv

The current number of Omaha's Own Magazine carries a discussion of the American farmer and his troubles by James P. Goodrich, formerly governor of Indiana, who denies that the agricultural situation is as bad as it is painted and cites in proof some interesting data about some of the states in which the chorus of complaint has been loudest, notably Iowa.

Mr. Goodrich thinks it is time to talk about rural banks that adhered to prudence and didn't fail instead of about banks that failed—and failed mainly because of unsound banking practices. He would like to hear more for a while about successful farmers and less about the unsuccessful ones; more about the profits that have been made on farms and less about losses. In sum, he is for having the anvil chorus withdraw from the spotlight into the wings, and give place to another large chorus that is disposed to keep off the minor chords and sound some jubilant notes.

There is no doubt that the jeremiads—the lamentations—that have made a large part of our farm areas vocal since 1920 have interfered with the stability of agriculture and betterment of farm conditions. Mr. Goodrich has good reason to say that "no other business would have survived the storm of pessimism that has swept over American agriculture."

Why not a better hearkening to stories of farm solvencies and profits that refer back to rational diversification and all the logical things that go with it? Almost innumerable such stories have been recited in detail in the columns of The Tribune in the last five or six years. Why not some timely concentration of attention on such facts as Mr. Goordich cites about Iowa as follows:

> Isn't it time that some loyal son of Iowa was calling attention to the fact that the per capita wealth of Iowa in 1926 was $3,539, nearly double the average of the United States?
> That the farm cash income last year was $718,000,000, an average of $2,321 for each family. That only 8½ per cent of this was from corn. That her poultry products amounted to double and her dairy products to nearly four times the value of her corn sold. That her farmers marketed in 1926, 10,702,000 hogs, 1,899,000 cattle, 862,000 sheep, 289,000 calves and 32,000,000 poultry, to produce which she fed 400,000,000 bushels of corn, at a net return of much over $1 a bushel. That the value of the poultry and dairy products alone for last year was $204,477,000. That her loans from federal banks have decreased from $98,636,000 on December 11, 1920, to $6,794,000 on February 17, 1927. That her loans from War Finance corporation had decreased from $24,000,000 on May 1, 1922, to only $22,000 on January 1, 1927. That the deposit in her 1,427 banks and trust companies on December 31 last was $881,065,915.76, as against $442,110,916.96 on December 31, 1914.

Disseminating this information is, we should say, a good turn by a citizen of Indiana to the sovereign state of Iowa—where the tall corn grows. It is like administering a poultice to the "black eye" which some of the Jeremiahs of Iowa have given their own robust state.

FOOD GROWS HAIR ON BALD HEADS

Chicago — Scientists have found that Baldness is brought on by the lack of necessary food elements that the human hair requires. "Foods found in Mother Earth grow, nourish and retain our hair," says P. A. Thomas, Ph. D., well known hair specialist, 294 America-Fore Bldg., Chicago. He further states that the hair roots always stay alive and that in 85 out of 100 cases where hair is falling out or baldness has set in, a growth of new hair can be had in a short time by following his simple directions. He will gladly explain his method without cost to those interested in restoring or saving their hair. Write him today. —Adv

"Martin Johnson is right —Luckies give the greatest enjoyment"

Said Elmer Wood to Frank Stone while on a hunting trip in the Canadian Rockies.

Martin Johnson,
Famous African Explorer,
writes:

"While trailing big game in Africa, I have never been without my Lucky Strike Cigarette. Once on the Abyssinian border my shipment of them from America missed us, and I was miserable until the natives followed our tracks across the Kaisout desert to Nairobi with my precious cargo of Luckies. After 4 years of smoking Luckies in wildest Africa, I find my voice in perfect condition for my lecture tour in America."

ROSTERS OF YANKEES AND PIRATES REVIEWED

AMONG 47 BALL PLAYERS ELIGIBLE FOR SERIES, 13 NEVER IN SUCH PLAY

ON AT LEAST 7 OF NEWCOMERS, IF PIRATES PLAY, HEAVY STRAIN TO BE CARRIED

New York, Sept. 29.—Among the 47 ball players on the rosters of the New York Yankees and the Pittsburgh Pirates who are eligible for the world series are 13 who never have figured in the post-season championship.

On at least seven of the newcomers, provided the Pirates are destined to meet the Yanks in the series, some of the strain is due to fall; and eventual triumph may hang largely on their ability to withstand tension.

Five Yankees have yet to play before series crowds. They are Wilcey Moore and George Pipgras, pitchers; JackGrabowski, catcher; Julian Wera, third baseman and Cedric Durst, outfielder.

The Pirates who would find participation in the October big money a novelty are Paul and Lloyd Waner, outfielders; Carmen Hill, John Miljus and Joe Dawson, pitchers, Joe Cronin and Hal Rhine, infielders, and Fred Brickell, outfielder.

Moore and Pipgras are likely to enter the box for the Yanks. The former has been the most valuable relief pitcher in either league and if three opponents get on base in the late innings it is a good bet that he and his sinker ball will see action.

Pipgras has steadily progressed until he is ready to take his regular turn on the mound. Grabowski, who came to the Hugmen from Chicago, probably will be behind the bat in several games.

The Pirates offer the Waner brothers as regulars whose work thoughout the season kept them near the top. If the Pirates clinch the pennant, they can look back upon the months since April and offer thanks to the tribe of Waner for sending two sons to Pittsburgh.

Carmen Hill is an almost certain hurler if the Pirates come through. Miljus has turned in fine games his last times out.

Dangerous as it is to pick the heroes of world series engagements, it might be hazarded that the Waners and Wilcey Moore will find their way into the record books as stars of the 1927 classic.

But season's records are not often a criterion of a player's worth in the short span of seven or less games. The "goat" of one series, such as was Mark Koenig of the Yankees last year, may become the hero of the next.

And few baseball prophets ever become rich.

BAMBINO CLOUTS OUT 58TH HOMER

Yankee Stadium, New York, Sept. 29.—(UP)—Babe Ruth hit his 58th homer of the season in the first inning of today's game with the Washington Senators.

JACK DEMPSEY IS ON "COMEBACK TRAIL"

ROUGH OUTING IN COLORADO MOUNTAINS SOON

THEN PLANS SERIES OF 4 OR 5 FIGHTS WITH HEAVYWEIGHT CHALLENGERS

HOPES IT WILL ALL CULMINATE IN THIRD BOUT WITH TUNNEY

New York, Sept. 29.—(UP)—Two weeks from now Jack Dempsey will hit the "comeback trail" again.

Dempsey will go back to the Colorado mountains for a rough outing.

Then he plans a series of four or five fights with leading heavyweight challengers, which he hopes will culminate in a third bout with Gene Tunney.

Dempsey said he was ready to fight any worthy contender any time, any place. He was particularly interested in Tom Heeney, Paulino Uzcudun and Phil Scott, English heavyweight now on his way to this country. On his last trip to London Dempsey boxed one round with Scott at a benefit show and predicted that some day they would meet in a real battle.

The jaunt in the mountains, Dempsey hopes, will put him in the right frame of mind to fight his way back to the top of the ladder.

"My main object in going to the mountains is to see if I feel right for a campaign of fights," he said. "I am not worried about my physical condition, but I want to be sure that the old 'feel' for fighting is there. If it isn't I'll quit the ring forever, but I don't think that will happen."

Dempsey and his wife will spend the next ten days in New York and vicinity, visiting the theatres, cafes, and homes of friends as a relaxation from Jack's months of strenuous training.

Estelle Taylor placed her official approval on Jack's new plans.

"Whatever Jack does is all right with me," she said. "I have no objection at all to his fighting as often as he thinks best."

New York, Sept. 29.—(UP)—Jack Dempsey paid Leo P. Flynn $75,000 for training him and handling his affairs for the Sharkey fight and the second Tunney fight. The former champion presented Flynn with the check yesterday.

Flynn signed a blank contract with Dempsey as far as the financial angle was concerned, it was said.

Dempsey received a total of $864,500 for the two fights and gave Flynn 11.55 per cent of his earnings.

Roughly speaking, Flynn was associated with Dempsey ninety days. On that basis his salary was $833.33 a day.

It was understood Dempsey gave Jerry Luvadis, his faithful trainer, a check for $25,000.

No information was available what Tunney will pay Billy Gibson, his manager, but Gibson is certain to get $100,000 and more likely to draw 25 per cent of Tunney's purse, or $250,000.

CINCINNATI IS BATTLE GROUND TODAY

REDS OF NATIONAL PLAYING SECOND PLACE ST. LOUIS CARDINALS

PIRATES LEAD LEAGUE BY TWO GAMES, THIRD PLACE GIANTS IDLE

(By United Press)

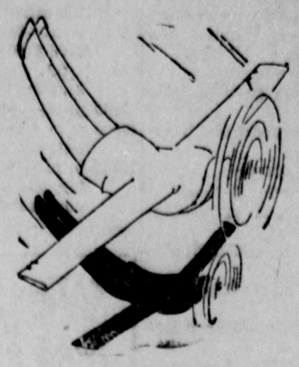

Cincinnati today was the National League pennant battle ground, with the Reds playing the second place St. Louis Cardinals. The Pirates, leading the league by two games, and the third place Giants were idle.

Pittsburgh has three games left to play against Cincinnati, beginning Friday. St. Louis also has three games to play, today's against the Reds and two against the Chicago Cubs.

If the Pirates lose two games to Cincinnati and the Cardinals win their remaining three games, the two clubs will tie for league honors. Pittsburgh must lose its three remaining games and St. Louis win three if last year's champions are to repeat.

The Giants are still a mathematical possibility to tie for the pennant provided the Cardinals and Pirates

VANDALS ENTER SCHOOL HOUSES

Crosby-Ironton High School Reported Burglarized Tuesday Night; $13 Taken

Hill City School Windows Smashed, Books and Money Stolen; Youths Blamed

An epidemic of school robberies appears to have broken out in towns and cities throughout the northwest with the report today of two breakins in school houses at Crosby-Ironton and at Hill City.

Vandals, believed to be a gang of youths, broke into the Crosby-Ironton high school Tuesday evening and after rummaging through the building stole $12 from the superintendent's office and one dollar from a teacher's desk. The Crosby police are conducting an investigation.

Similar burglarizing was reported at Hill City where the school house was entered, several windows broken and a small amount of money and books taken.

The Whittier school at Brainerd was burglarized last week and a small amount of money taken. Expert fingerprint advice was sought from St. Paul while the local police have been continuing their investigation.

NO TRACE OF BANDIT

Police Continue Search for Lone Gunman Who Robbed Garvey's Restaurant

While the police continues its search, no trace of the lone bandit who held up Garvey's restaurant early yesterday morning has been found.

Chief of Police Templeton was of the opinion this morning that the holdup was committed by an out of town man, using the argument that a local man even though foolhardy, would hardly attempt the robbery without a mask.

Pythian Sisters Entertain

The Pythian Sisters had the Knights of Pythias as their guests at a reception held in the Masonic hall last evening in honor of Mrs. Evelyn Paine. Mrs. Paine was recently elected Grand Chief of Minnesota at the Grand Temple Session of the Pythian Sisters held at Monticello, Minn., just recently. This is the highest honor that can be conferred upon a member of the order in the state.

"IRISH HEARTS," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Emmett Murtough, a gay, young beaux of Killanmaul, a village on the west coast of Ireland, near Knockbotherum, plans to go to America. He is in love with Sheila Kildare. Both have their fortunes told and a good luck charm is given to Sheila. Sheila doubts Emmett's love because he has played fast and loose in his flirtations with the girls along the road from Killanmaul to Knockbotherum and she fears to make the voyage.

"But the village has talked."

"Yes, the gossips, bad cess to them! But they make up their tales out of whole cloth an' ye know there's never been cause. Nothing's ever come out that would reflect on me."

"I know that, Emmett, dear, but I'm a bit beset by it all. It's true I love you; ye'r the only boy in Killanmaul that I've ever walked out with. But the whispers in the cottages have hurt me sometimes. Oh, Emmett, I do want you to be a big man an' a successful man an' a good man an' if God wills it so I'll come to you when ye are ready for me." Sheila gave herself to his arms with this pledge and the Murtough, somewhat confused by the deep sincerity of her promise pressed an awed kiss upon her cheek.

"I'll do well, Sheila, darling, just for your sake," he promised.

Old Tom Kildare was delighted. Emmett Murtough was a man after his own heart, a rollicking boy who could take his drink or leave it; who could sing the brave ballads of Ireland's long fight for liberty, or croon the love melodies that brought tears of submission to a colleen's eyes. Old Tom never doubted the Murtough's march to prosperity over there in the fabled land of America. Such a broth of a boy could never fail, the old man thought. And when Sheila told him of her pledge to go when Emmett should send for her, he was overjoyed. Selfishness entered into his elation, for he knew that Sheila never would leave him and that he, too, would have his chance to see with his own eyes that fair land which spreads across a continent behind the welcoming arms of Miss Liberty.

"Sure an' there's plenty of chances for a lad like you."

"Get ye a job, boy," he told Emmett. "Sure an' there's plenty of chances for a lad like you, you with yer fine manners an' your gift o' gab. They'll take to ye, lad, an' remember there's a future always in politics."

The Murtough had planned a triumphant farewell. He set the date and with the connivance of Old Tom Kildare there was to be a farewell supper at the Widow O'Farrell's Inn. Old Tom issued the invitations by word of mouth and there were more than a score of acceptances but many a one said yes with his tongue in his cheek. He would go, but it would be to enjoy the antics of the braggart Murtough. Soon all the countryside as far as Knockbotherum knew of the coming farewell supper. Indeed, Emmett borrowed Old Tom's pony and dog cart and drove to Knockbotherum to make his reservations for the coach which was to relay him to the railroad which was to carry him to Queenstown.

The pony was jogging along in the moonlight and Emmett sang happily as he drove homeward. Crowning the hill beyond him was a light in the window of the cottage of Denis Finnegan. As the light fixed itself in Emmett's eyes the song ceased. He had no wish to arouse the quiet of the Finnegan household for Annie would have much to say. The pony was at a walk and the traveler approached the cottage almost silently. As the cart reached the gate in the hedge a figure stepped out to the roadside.

"Is it you, Emmett Murtough," a girl's voice asked. "I saw ye passing down this morning."

"An' who else should it be, Annie darling," replied the Murtough in a flippant tone, although his heart beat fearfully as he halted the pony and swung down from the cart.

"Oh, Emmett, why haven't ye been to see me?"

"'Tis busy I am the whole day long."

"I hear that y'er going away?"

"To America, Annie, darling, to make me fortune."

"Oh, Emmett, an' I'm never to see ye again?"

"Of course. Why, Annie, when I become rich I'm going to send for ye an' ye'll be living in a fine house with silks and satins on yer back."

"But Emmett, how soon, how soon?"

"Oh, it won't take me long. There's big chances for the right kind of a man over there. There's where a man has a chance to be something, to get somewhere. There's no way for a fellow to get on here around Killanmaul. Ye know that, Annie."

"I know, Emmett, but I'm afraid. Ye promised me the ring, Emmett, ye know ye did!"

"An' ye shall have it, Annie, just as soon as ever I can send for ye."

"I'm afraid, Emmett. There's the father now, an' he's suspicious. He's accused me already, Emmett, and asked me to name the man I'm pledged to."

"An' did ye tell him?"

"Ye told me not to, Emmett."

The Murtough sighed with relief. Well he knew Denis Finnegan, a tough, hard old customer was he with all his age. The countryside still told tales of his fighting prowess when younger and always they wound up the tale with, "an' old Denis can do as well today, too, if he have cause." The Murtough had been uneasy ever since Annie had first listened to his love plea; now if he could safely embark on his way to America without old Denis calling him to account all would be well.

"When do ye go, Emmett?"

"Ten days from today, an' all of Killanmaul is turning out to wish me well. There's to be a fine supper at the Widow O'Farrell's given by all the men of the countryside. Oh, 'tis a great day for me an' ye can depend on it I'll be a great man over there in America. Ye'll have the best in the land, Annie, darling," he added to forestall what he feared would be tears and reproaches.

"Oh, Emmett, I love ye so. Ye won't forget me? Ye will send for me? It must be grand over there in America! I'd love to go to you Emmett, but Emmett, dear, ye must send for me soon, else father will know."

"I will, Annie, dear, I will," he answered fervently. "But I must be off now. There's a deal to do in getting ready for such a voyage. I must have all my business affairs in shape before I leave," he went on magnificently.

"I know, I know. But ye will see me before ye go, Emmett," the girl asked anxiously. "Ye'll come to see me an' ye'll walk once more down by the sea just as we used to do?"

"Indeed an' indeed I will," the Murtough promised while she lay upon his breast for a moment before he mounted the cart and drove on to Killanmaul. But Emmett Murtough sang no more ballads on the way to the village.

The Widow O'Farrell had done herself proud. Few were the banquets ever held at the Inn; occasionally when there was a countryside hunt the hunters would dine in a body at the end of the day, but those affairs were rare. The guests gathered early to do honor to Emmett Murtough, but more honor to the food and liquor which would grace the tables. And each man was entitled to his fullest share, for had not each one contributed the price of his own supper?

Old Tom Kildare was on hand to welcome the guests, and Peter Harrigan, the uncle of the young adventurer, joined him. Peter had the reputation of being a man over whose eyes no one could pull the wool.

"Good riddance, says I," he said to Kildare. "I'm glad I'm able to give him the price of his passage. He was bound for no good here in Killanmaul, what with his carryings on an' his laziness."

"Ye'r too hard on the boy," defended Old Tom. "Sure an' he's just sowing his oats he is. He'll be a big man over there in America, what with his fine looks an' the tongue on him."

"Bah, I've known the rascal since he was knee high an' his mother an' father died an' left him to me to take care of. If he was a real man he'd settle down here in Killanmaul. 'Tis good enough for us, it should be good enough for the likes of him!"

Fly-Tox Helps Reduce Infant Mortality

Every year in the United States 250,000 children under 5 years of age die. Health authorities say it is significant that more deaths occur during the time flies are most active. Flies transmit more than thirty different diseases. Every fly should be killed. Fly-Tox kills flies. It is fragrant, safe, stainless, sure.—Adv.

TEAMS TO BATTLE TOMORROW; SNAPPY SCRIMMAGES ROUND OUT LOCALS

Brainerd's galloping herd will take to the field for the first battle of the season tomorrow afternoon at Staples. Under cover both teams have been working out for the past two weeks, each full of confidence to win.

Coach Kasch has worked his men into a condition heretofore unknown at the Brainerd high school for so early in the season. He has put a new fight in the team and there is every rason to believe that the team in spite of the fact that many of the lettermen were lost to the ranks, will go a long way to copping district honors.

Staples will present formidable opposition, which in order to down, Brainerd must play with their heads up to the last minute. Reports are to the effect that Staples has a heavy backfield, faster than put out last year by that town.

The following men are ready to meet nny opposition that comes their way: Creger, tackle; W. Hautala, backfield; Hanson, guard; LaCourse, tackle; Guin, end; Swanson, guard; Barnes, end; Wise, quarter and half; Buscher, quarter and half; Greener, full back; Ellison, center; A. "Difference of opinion makes horse-racing," is the immemorial proverb and auspice of the sport of kings. Yet for Man O' War who was indifferent to all but the victorious goal, king and stable boy rise to agree there was no difference of opinion when that super-horse faced the barrier.

No Difference of Opinion

When Supremacy is so Outstanding

In its repertoire of brilliant abilities, the New Hudson Super-Six asserts its supremacy in vivid performance facts that stand free and clear of opinion or debate.

Here is a new power in motordom—totally different in development and expression—totally new in range and efficiency—the smooth and mighty power of the steam engine delivered with silky ease and vivacity.

The basis of this great Hudson capacity is a new companion invention to the Super-Six principle which turns waste heat to power. Together they combine the highest efficiency in power generation and transmission ever achieved within our knowledge.

In the new Hudson motor, spark knock heretofore characteristic of the high-compression motor is eliminated, and ordinary gasoline gives the performance results sought through special and higher-priced fuels.

It is receiving the greatest public reception in Hudson history, because in all ways it is the greatest Hudson Super-Six ever built.

"IRISH HEARTS," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Emmett Murtough, a gay, young beaux of Killanmaul, a village on the west coast of Ireland, near Knockbotherum, plans to go to America. He is in love with Sheila Kildare. Both have their fortunes told and a good luck charm is given to Sheila. Sheila doubts Emmett's love because he has played fast and loose in his flirtations with the girls along the road from Killanmaul to Knockbotherum and she fears to make the voyage.

"But the village has talked."

"Yes, the gossips, bad cess to them! But they make up their tales out of whole cloth an' ye know there's never been cause. Nothing's ever come out that would reflect on me."

"I know that, Emmett, dear, but I'm a bit beset by it all. It's true I love you; ye'r the only boy in Killanmaul that I've ever walked out with. But the whispers in the cottages have hurt me sometimes. Oh, Emmett, I do want you to be a big man an' a successful man an' a good man an' if God wills it so I'll come to you when ye are ready for me." Sheila gave herself to his arms with this pledge and the Murtough, somewhat confused by the deep sincerity of her promise pressed an awed kiss upon her cheek.

"I'll do well, Sheila, darling, just for your sake," he promised.

Old Tom Kildare was delighted. Emmett Murtough was a man after his own heart, a rollicking boy who could take his drink or leave it; who could sing the brave ballads of Ireland's long fight for liberty, or croon the love melodies that brought tears of submission to a colleen's eyes. Old Tom never doubted the Murtough's march to prosperity over there in the fabled land of America. Such a broth of a boy could never fail, the old man thought. And when Sheila told him of her pledge to go when Emmett should send for her, he was overjoyed. Selfishness entered into his elation, for he knew that Sheila never would leave him and that he, too, would have his chance to see with his own eyes that fair land which spreads across a continent behind the welcoming arms of Miss Liberty.

"Sure an' there's plenty of chances for a lad like you."

"Get ye a job, boy," he told Emmett. "Sure an' there's plenty of chances for a lad like you, you with yer fine manners an' your gift o' gab. They'll take to ye, lad, an' remember there's a future always in politics."

The Murtough had planned a triumphant farewell. He set the date and with the connivance of Old Tom Kildare there was to be a farewell supper at the Widow O'Farrell's Inn. Old Tom issued the invitations by word of mouth and there were more than a score of acceptances but many a one said yes with his tongue in his cheek. He would go, but it would be to enjoy the antics of the braggart Murtough. Soon all the countryside as far as Knockbotherum knew of the coming farewell supper. Indeed, Emmett borrowed Old Tom's pony and dog cart and drove to Knockbotherum to make his reservations for the coach which was to relay him to the railroad which was to carry him to Queenstown.

The pony was jogging along in the moonlight and Emmett sang happily as he drove homeward. Crowning the hill beyond him was a light in the window of the cottage of Denis Finnegan. As the light fixed itself in Emmett's eyes the song ceased. He had no wish to arouse the quiet of the Finnegan household for Annie would have much to say. The pony was at a walk and the traveler approached the cottage almost silently. As the cart reached the gate in the hedge a figure stepped out to the roadside.

"Is it you, Emmett Murtough," a girl's voice asked. "I saw ye passing down this morning."

"An' who else should it be, Annie darling," replied the Murtough in a flippant tone, although his heart beat fearfully as he halted the pony and swung down from the cart.

"Oh, Emmett, why haven't ye been to see me?"

"'Tis busy I am the whole day long."

"I hear that y'er going away?"

"To America, Annie, darling, to make me fortune."

"Oh, Emmett, an' I'm never to see ye again?"

"Of course. Why, Annie, when I become rich I'm going to send for ye an' ye'll be living in a fine house with silks and satins on yer back."

"But Emmett, how soon, how soon?"

"Oh, it won't take me long. There's big chances for the right kind of a man over there. There's where a man has a chance to be something, to get somewhere. There's no way for a fellow to get on here around Killanmaul. Ye know that, Annie."

"I know, Emmett, but I'm afraid. Ye promised me the ring, Emmett, ye know ye did!"

"An' ye shall have it, Annie, just as soon as ever I can send for ye."

"I'm afraid, Emmett. There's the father now, an' he's suspicious. He's accused me already, Emmett, and asked me to name the man I'm pledged to."

"An' did ye tell him?"

"Ye told me not to, Emmett."

The Murtough sighed with relief. Well he knew Denis Finnegan, a tough, hard old customer was he with all his age. The countryside still told tales of his fighting prowess when younger and always they wound up the tale with, "an' old Denis can do as well today, too, if he have cause." The Murtough had been uneasy ever since Annie had first listened to his love plea; now if he could safely embark on his way to America without old Denis calling him to account all would be well.

"When do ye go, Emmett?"

"Ten days from today, an' all of Killanmaul is turning out to wish me well. There's to be a fine supper at the Widow O'Farrell's given by all the men of the countryside. Oh, 'tis a great day for me an' ye can depend on it I'll be a great man over there in America. Ye'll have the best in the land, Annie, darling," he added to forestall what he feared would be tears and reproaches.

"Oh, Emmett, I love ye so. Ye won't forget me? Ye will send for me? It must be grand over there in America! I'd love to go to you Emmett, but Emmett, dear, ye must send for me soon, else father will know."

"I will, Annie, dear, I will," he answered fervently. "But I must be off now. There's a deal to do in getting ready for such a voyage. I must have all my business affairs in shape before I leave," he went on magnificently.

"I know, I know. But ye will see me before ye go, Emmett," the girl asked anxiously. "Ye'll come to see me an' ye'll walk once more down by the sea just as we used to do?"

"Indeed an' indeed I will," the Murtough promised while she lay upon his breast for a moment before he mounted the cart and drove on to Killanmaul. But Emmett Murtough sang no more ballads on the way to the village.

The Widow O'Farrell had done herself proud. Few were the banquets ever held at the Inn; occasionally when there was a countryside hunt the hunters would dine in a body at the end of the day, but those affairs were rare. The guests gathered early to do honor to Emmett Murtough, but more honor to the food and liquor which would grace the tables. And each man was entitled to his fullest share, for had not each one contributed the price of his own supper?

Old Tom Kildare was on hand to welcome the guests, and Peter Harrigan, the uncle of the young adventurer, joined him. Peter had the reputation of being a man over whose eyes no one could pull the wool.

"Good riddance, says I," he said to Kildare. "I'm glad I'm able to give him the price of his passage. He was bound for no good here in Killanmaul, what with his carryings on an' his laziness."

"Ye'r too hard on the boy," defended Old Tom. "Sure an' he's just sowing his oats he is. He'll be a big man over there in America, what with his fine looks an' the tongue on him."

"Bah, I've known the rascal since he was knee high an' his mother an' father died an' left him to me to take care of. If he was a real man he'd settle down here in Killanmaul. 'Tis good enough for us, it should be good enough for the likes of him!"

Fly-Tox Helps Reduce Infant Mortality

Every year in the United States 250,000 children under 5 years of age die. Health authorities say it is significant that more deaths occur during the time flies are most active. Flies transmit more than thirty different diseases. Every fly should be killed. Fly-Tox kills flies. It is fragrant, safe, stainless, sure.—Adv.

KASCH'S MEN OFF TO STAPLES FOR OPENING BATTLE

TEAMS TO BATTLE TOMORROW; SNAPPY SCRIMMAGES ROUND OUT LOCALS

Brainerd's galloping herd will take to the field for the first battle of the season tomorrow afternoon at Staples. Under cover both teams have been working out for the past two weeks, each full of confidence to win.

Coach Kasch has worked his men into a condition heretofore unknown at the Brainerd high school for so early in the season. He has put a new fight in the team and there is every rason to believe that the team in spite of the fact that many of the lettermen were lost to the ranks, will go a long way to copping district honors.

Staples will present formidable opposition, which in order to down, Brainerd must play with their heads up to the last minute. Reports are to the effect that Staples has a heavy backfield, faster than put out last year by that town.

The following men are ready to meet nny opposition that comes their way: Creger, tackle; W. Hautala, backfield; Hanson, guard; LaCourse, tackle; Guin, end; Swanson, guard; Barnes, end; Wise, quarter and half; Buscher, quarter and half; Greener, full back; Ellison, center; A. Hautala, backfield; Paine, line; McCaffrey brothers, backfield; Fox, center; E. Gabiou, half; B. Anderson, tackle; Goedderz, end; Burke, guard; Johnson, end; Burton, quarter; Fuller, tackle; Hoffbauer, end; Schulty, tackle; Lammon, end; Foster, tackle; Armstrong, line; S. Patterson, line; H. Patterson, center; Viken, tackle; Geist, line; Wyett, guard.

HEAVY SHOWERS AGAIN POSTPONE SERIES OPENER

Toledo, Sept. 29.—(UP)—A heavy shower this afternoon again caused postponement of the opening game of the junior world series between Toledo and Buffalo.

If the weather permits, the opener will be played here tomorrow. The teams will go to Buffalo Saturday.

The standing:

Pittsburgh	93	58	.616
St. Louis	91	60	.603
New York	90	61	.596

New York maintained the chance to tie for the pennant by beating the Phils, 5 to 4. They can tie only by winning three games while the Cards and Pirates lose three. The Phils were defeated in the tenth inning yesterday after the Giants had tied the score with two runs in the eighth. Both teams scored once in the ninth. Cy Williams hit his 30th home run.

"Difference of opinion makes horse-racing," is the immemorial proverb and auspice of the sport of kings. Yet for Man O' War who was indifferent to all but the victorious goal, king and stable boy rise to agree there was no difference of opinion when that super-horse faced the barrier.

No Difference of Opinion

When Supremacy is so Outstanding

In its repertoire of brilliant abilities, the New Hudson Super-Six asserts its supremacy in vivid performance facts that stand free and clear of opinion or debate.

Here is a new power in motordom—totally different in development and expression—totally new in range and efficiency—the smooth and mighty power of the steam engine delivered with silky ease and vivacity.

The basis of this great Hudson capacity is a new companion invention to the Super-Six principle which turns waste heat to power. Together they combine the highest efficiency in power generation and transmission ever achieved within our knowledge.

In the new Hudson motor, spark knock heretofore characteristic of the high-compression motor is eliminated, and ordinary gasoline gives the performance results sought through special and higher-priced fuels.

It is receiving the greatest public reception in Hudson history, because in all ways it is the greatest Hudson Super-Six ever built.
